Fuel a passion, energize your classroom
This summer, help your high school students explore and grow with an experiential learning adventure in one of the world’s major cultural hubs. Whether students explore Roman treasures, craft digital films in Seville, or tour London’s world-class theaters, they draw inspiration from international masters and discover how art and culture intersect. Wherever they go, students bring fresh ideas and perspectives back home, keen to tackle ambitious projects and inspiring creativity among peers.

Program highlights

Experiential learning. With studios, theaters, and galleries as their classrooms, students discover the world’s historic art treasures and see today’s artists work through the creative process.

Skill development. Students expand their palettes by practicing and refining their craft, whether it's filmmaking or painting.

Cultural immersion. Students balance learning with engaging cultural experiences like cooking classes, street art tours, and sporting events.

Fuel a passion, energize your classroom

This summer, help students pursue their startup dreams with our international crash course in entrepreneurship. Our innovative programs take teens to five entrepreneurial hot spots around the world – from Shanghai, China’s Silicon Valley, to Santiago, Chile, the creative and cultural industries hub of Latin America. In just three weeks, students see what it’s like to bring a new idea to market. They bring home the skills, mindset, and confidence to navigate a global economy. They bring enthusiasm back to school, eager for the next challenge and sparking interest among peers.

Program highlights

Learn from the pros. Students meet a variety of experienced entrepreneurs and hear about their successes and failures firsthand.

Build a business plan. Students form teams and work together to develop and test their concept for a viable startup, internalizing key lessons about identifying marketable problem/solutions, planning strategy, financing, and more.

Hone presentation skills. Finally, students deliver the all-important business pitch to a mock panel of investors, learning the value of preparation and conviction.

Fuel a passion, energize your classroom

This summer, help your students make exciting new connections with a CIEE intensive experiential learning and scientific study program. We offer a world of choice. Whether students gather data in Costa Rica, conduct research at a marine lab in Spain, or survey wildlife in Botswana, they see the real-life applications of their passions. Hands-on science learning encourages them to investigate the natural world and link high school lessons to discoveries in the field. When they return to class, students share their findings and enthusiasm, and welcome new challenges.

Program highlights

Experiential learning. Students share three hours a day with experts in the lab, classroom, or field, testing hypotheses and exploring essential questions about scientific concepts and conservation challenges.

Community engagement. As they work with NGO leaders and local citizens, students gain insights from the people who are working for change and learn about effective approaches and strategies.

Daily reflections. To help their discoveries stick, students process daily lessons on global diversity and sustainability, comparing what they see to what they know from home.

Fuel their passion, energize your community

This summer, your students can gain the skills and perspectives that help communities achieve change. Whether students mentor marginalized teen girls in India, teach at-risk youth in Ghana, or boost reliance on green energy in the Dominican Republic, they learn to collaborate effectively with people from different cultures and practice strategies that lead to success. With hearts and minds transformed, students return with a service learning certificate, inspired to share their experience and apply their achievements at home.

Program highlights

Daily service learning and reflection. Students log three hours a day of service learning with CIEE teachers and/or leaders from carefully selected, established NGOs that have demonstrated local impact. They journal daily on their experiences, draw meaning from those reflections, and apply new learning to their daily lives abroad – and beyond.

Intercultural development. Students learn to effectively and appropriately connect and interact with people who hold different values, norms, and beliefs. This valuable life skill is critical for effective collaboration between cultures.

Leadership skills. Students learn about their own leadership style and put it to the test daily, as they work in teams and alongside local peers in community settings.

Help tomorrow’s leaders reap the benefits

Tell your students about our international programs today! Eager to do more? Consider bringing a group of students on a CIEE custom summer adventure that blends service learning and intercultural development. We’ll work with you to choose a location and design an unforgettable program that suits your goals and your students’ interests. Imagine summer soccer in Tanzania – with a mission to empower young girls. Or squad time perfecting your French with croissants in a magical Parisian park. What if summer outside meant reforesting mangroves and tracking endangered birds in Costa Rica?

Your CIEE summer abroad could be any of these. Choose from 50+ adventures rooted in language, service, or intriguing topics like filmmaking or marine science. Set out for three or four weeks of hands-on learning, eye-opening group excursions, and fun activities that deeply immerse you in local culture, and seize a summer you’ll never forget.

“I had the best summer ever! Not only was I able to immerse myself into another culture, language, and country, but I also created friendships with amazing people.”

—Jazmin F., Ferrara, Italy, Global Navigator alumna

CONSIDER A SCHOLARSHIP

CIEE’s competitive Global Navigator scholarships help over 1,200 high school students like you study abroad each summer. If you’re a U.S. citizen or permanent resident, a current freshman, sophomore, or junior in a U.S. high school, and have not previously accepted a Global Navigator scholarship, you’re eligible!

Students can qualify for one of two types of scholarships. “Merit Only” scholarships award 10% off tuition to students with outstanding academic performance. “Merit and Financial Need” scholarships award from 10 to 100% off program tuition. Airfare is not included.

DON’T MISS OUT!

Small-sized groups are part of what makes the CIEE experience special. It also means our most popular programs fill fast!

If you are not relying on a scholarship, make sure to complete your application as soon as possible to secure a spot on your favorite program. Applications without scholarships are reviewed on a rolling basis.

Priority scholarship deadline: Submit on or before this date for the best chance of getting a scholarship. We award 80% of our scholarship funds to applicants who meet this deadline.

Final scholarship deadline: Last chance! Applications received on or before this date are eligible for our remaining scholarship funds.

If you are applying for a “Merit Only” scholarship, you can pay your deposit before the official deadline to secure a spot on your favorite program.

GET THE CIEE ADVANTAGE

With a CIEE program, you’re completely immersed in your host country culture – not a tourist on the sidelines. Concepts you’ve covered in school come to life when you apply them to real places you can experience with all five senses. You’ll return home more independent, more confident, and even more curious.

As one of the largest U.S. nonprofit organizations dedicated to study abroad with 70+ years of experience, we leave nothing to chance. From curriculum to safety, we shape your entire experience by owning and operating each of our 65 study centers worldwide and aligning programs with high school learning standards in foreign language, science, and service.
